THE ANGRY SEA — The Carmel area's normally rather placid Pacific is these days a raging monster that crashes against the shore, carrying with it the debris of the river and ocean. The crashing waves have made necessary construction of emergency sea walls to keep the sea from eating away the pavement of Scenic Drive. The continuing rain and offshore storms are creating problems of a magnitude seldom encountered in Carmel.

Fred Strong Steps Down

Carmel's genial postmaster, Fred G. Strong, has been notified by the Postal Department that tomorrow, Feb. 21, he can retire after 40 years as an employee.

"I'm going to get down the paints I put on the shelf when I started working for the post office 40 years ago, and I'm going to paint."

Strong was a clerk for 24 years, assistant postmaster for five years, and postmaster for the past 11 years.

He started with the post office in 1928, when it was located on Dolores street in the building now occupied by the Carmel Museum of Art.

He moved with the post office to a site where the Mission Cleaners are now, then back to Dolores street to a building now the Carmel Realty. The post office moved to its present site in 1951, and in 1960 the space was doubled.

Meantime, postal examiners will go over Fred Strong's records tomorrow, and it apears that William Woolsey, assistant postmaster, will be named temporary postmaster.

In all probability a new postmaster will be appointed from the three highest on a Civil Service examination. This has been the practice in the past, since Strong indicated that most congressmen no longer look on the appointment of postmasters as a patronage plum and would rather not have the chore.

The full story of Fred G. Strong's retirement is carried on page 10.

Padres Down Hollister, 76-62, Will Travel to Gonzales for Final MTAL

By Hal Gann

Carmel's MTAL championship basketballers bested Hollister, 76-62, as Crafty Coach Jason Harbert deftly worked Junior Pete Shaw and Senior Kevin Huston into the lineup for the injured Ross Smith and Steve Taylor.

"It was a great clutch performance by Pete, and I am very pleased with Kev in our top-of-the-key originations on offense," smiled Harbert.

Shaw scored 17, while the Magnificent Wink (Bruce Winkler) registered 23 to gain high point laurels as he nursed the flu bug.

Next Padre Sportcast is tonight, Thursday, Feb. 20, over KRSA-FM, 100.7 Mc, 8:30 p.m., as Carmel plays at Gonzales. Of course, the really big game for the Padres is next Wednesday evening, 8 p.m., at Cabrillo College, as the Mission Trail champs meet Monterey Bay League winner Santa Cruz, a team that many predict will go all the way this year in the state playoffs. This game will also be broadcast over KRSA-FM, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Senior Smith and junior Steve Taylor are important cogs in the Padre machine, and both were knocked out last week with physical impairments, Smith with a foot injury and Taylor with a wrenched knee.

Last Friday on the Carmel home floor, the Padres turned back Holy Cross 62-61, in a game that was almost a duplicate of their first clash (70-66) at Cabrillo.

This HC-Carmel Friday epic, which saw the lead change hands 18 times, perhaps was the most sensational game from a spectators standpoint.

The Padres now are basketball league champions for the fifth time since the school's inception in 1940.

They have the fans, the coach, and the team, and next Wednesday, we will see just how good this Santa Cruz team is.

Young Violinist Kim Wows Them at Sunset

By Margot Hyatt

A more generous sprinkling of young people than usual filled seats not occupied by Carmel Music Society subscribers at Saturday evening's violin concert by the 22-year-old Korean, Young Uck Kim, at Sunset Auditorium.

It was a wonderful performance to watch as well as listen to. Lim's strong young body described a perfect arc as he played, every muscle in it involved in producing perfectly controlled technique and tone.

It was like seeing a champion golfer make a swing, or watching and hearing the acceleration and deceleration of a Rolls Royce motor.

Nor was feeling and temperament missing. In this he was joined by Roslyn Frantz at the piano who was with him every step of the way in a very difficult program.

Strikingly blonde, Miss Frantz is in private life Mrs. Gregory Millar, wife of the former Monterey County Symphony conductor from 1951 to 1959, and is a well known here.

As if presenting his credentials to back up his reputation, Kim began his program with a short sonata by Pergolesi in which feather touch trills were contained in the breathtaking Presto which ended it.

The Beethoven Sonata No. 3 in E flat Major allowed him more latitude to show his capabilities. The high point in this work was in the Adagio con molt 'espressione in which the rich tones of his Stradivarius and the Steinway played by Miss Frantz expressed the depth of Beethoven's feeling.

But it was in the unaccompanied Bach Chaconne in D minor that Kim established himself with the audience as the master of his instrument.

For many this difficult piece is a feat of endurance, both for the violinist and for the listener. No one, however, could have been less than impressed by the smooth way he preserved the polyphonic lines within the surrounding arpeggios.

The audience showed its appreciation by its applause and stamping of feet in the balcony.

One of Hindemith's greatest compositions, his Sonata in E flat major followed intermission. The interesting opening theme was combined with a welcome freshness of harmony and rhythm. An unusual tonal effect in the slower dance movement was achieved by the use of the mute.

Gay, charming and graceful, as one would expect, the Mozart Rondo did not suffer by following a modern piece. An unexpected and nice bit of programming, it perhaps increased one's enjoyment of the Stravinsky Berceuse which followed it.

This little minor key lullaby, Kim played with the most exquisite tenderness. He left his audience in an enchanted dreamland so high that applause was a rude awakening.

Here again the programming of this quiet contemporary piece seemed to point up by contrast the brilliance of Wienawski's Polonaise in D Major in which Kim again demonstrated his viruosity.

Best in the season so far, Carmel Music Society subscribers are already looking forward to the piano recital by Raymond Lewenthal on Friday, Mar. 21.

P.S.

The beautiful Roslyn Frantz Millar who took the place of Kim's sister at the keyboard, is the mother of four children confided Mrs. Charles Trumbly at whose home they rehearsed for the recital. A concert pianist herself, she has played several recitals with him.

Gregory Millar is now conductor for the widely divided Tucson and Grand Rapids symphony orchestras.

Rosenker Joins Violin Recitalists

Michael Rosenker of Carmel, internationally known violinist and former concertmaster of the New York Philharmonic, presented the students in his first Master-Class at Monterey Peninsula College in the Music Hall there Sunday evening.

Students included Andrew Erlich, winner of the Young Artists audition conducted by the Junior League last fall.

Frederick Schaad of Carmel gave sensitive supporting accompaniment to all seven of the students.

The audience was further rewarded by a group of three pieces played by Rosenker: the second movement of the Goldmark Concerto, Improvisation by Kabalevsky, and Banjo and Fiddle, by the American composer William Kroll.

Rosenker joined the entire ensemble in a fast tempo and amusing, unaccompanied Allegro by Bach.

Children Enjoy Symphony at Sunset

There was a very good turn out for the ten o'clock performance by the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra at Sunset Saturday, in spite of the fact that it was pouring out in Carmel Valley when the bus picked up children to bring them in, and the fact that the Carmel and Pebble Beach youngsters had to walk or be driven by their parents.

The children responded well to director Haymo Taeuber's remarks and questions and seemed to enjoy the music even though the music played by the soloists would have been more suitable for mature audiences.

Andrew Erlich of Pebble Beach played the Mozart Concerto movement for violin with charm and grace. His tone and work in the cadenza was impressive indeed. He is a pupil of Michael Rosenker in his Master Class at Monterey Peninsula College.

Juanita Messerli of Seaside played the Schumann Concerto piano movement with great poise and feeling as well as technical excellence. She is a pupil of Wade Parks.

Both these 16-year-olds were winners in the Young Artists Audition put on last fall by the Junior League who were in charge of this program.

The children enjoyed the rest of the music, but especially the Vienna Waltz by Strauss to which one could easily imagine the tall Mr. Taenber in his elegant formal morning clothes dancing with a beautiful lady.

There was at least one face familiar to Carmel youngsters in the orchestra, that of Jody Lasson, music instructor at Middle School, who played the heavy cymbals weighing 25 pounds each.

Later at 11:30, the concert was repeated for Monterey and Seaside children. In the afternoon the orchestra and soloists played in Salinas, a strenuous day for all concerned for which we thank them. M. H.

Joseph Schuster Cellist Dies

Carmel Bach Festival goers will be saddened to learn of the death of solo-cellist Joseph Schuster, 61, who played here last summer and in several other Bach Festivals.

Native of Istanbul, he studied in Berlin and joined the Berlin Philharmonic in 1931. He was solo cellist with the New York Philharmonic from 1940 to 1945 and toured on the concert stage since then.

Choral Society Announces Festival

Monterey Peninsula Choral Society announces its Third Annual presentation of the "Festival of Renaissance Music" under the direction of Haymo Taeuber, Conductor of Monterey County Symphony, at the First Methodist Church in Pacific Grove, Saturday, Mar. 1, 8 p.m. and Sunday, Mar. 2, 3 p.m.

The "Renaissance Festival" will encompass music by the Chorus, a Madrigal group of Chorus members, the Festival Brass Ensemble, and organ works performed by Kenneth Ahrens, concluding with the massive 150th Psalm by Heinrich Schutz, with Double Chorus, Brass Ensemble and Organ on Sunday afternoon. Each of the two concerts is unique and completely different.

Tickets are now available in Carmel at Central Box Office and the Symphony Office in Sunset Center.

The Choral Society's most recent presentation under Mr. Taeuber's direction was the highly acclaimed "Creation" at Carmel Mission in December. For further information write Box 272, Carmel.

THE CZECH NONET — Unique nine-member chamber music ensemble now on its first tour of the United States, will appear in the Monterey Peninsula College music hall Thursday, Feb. 27, at 8:30 p.m. Tickets for the concert are availble at the college community services office.

Czech Chamber Music Ensemble at MPC Feb. 27

The Czech Nonet, a famed Czechoslovakian chamber music ensemble now on its first North American tour, will appear in concert Thursday, Feb. 27, at 8:30 p.m. in the Monterey Peninsula College music hall.

Founded in 1924 in Prague, the Nonet consists of four string and five woodwind players — a combination rare in the musical world. The structure of the group affords an immense repertory for a variety of instruments, ranging from trios to nonets. Each of the nine artists is of concert caliber in his own right, and all are members of the Czech Philharmonic Orchestra.

Because of its unique nature and "the coloration of its sound," the Nonet has inspired compositions by many notable contemporary writers of music: Burian, Dobias, Haba, Jaroch, Novak, Ridky, Martinu and Foiprecht. The ensemble performs these pieces, many of which have been recorded in Europe, as well as contemporary and classic compositions of "many shades and colors, styles and techniques."

In its 40 years of existence, the Nonet has performed in almost every major music festival and every major music center.

Tickets to the concert, nominal in price, may be obtained by mail or in person

Wedding Bells

Outdoor Wedding at Nepenthe

With the Big Sur coastline in the background and rain clouds overhead, Dorcas Jane Fassett and David Thomas Owens were married on the deck of Nepenthe's Phoenix on Feb. 5.

Before a small family group which included the bride's parents, Bill and Lolly Fassett, the Rev. Peter Farmer performed the ceremony.

Dorcas wore a simple, oyster-white gown of homespun linen designed by Jon Sabater of Big Sur. The low round neckline and deep, flowing back pleat gave it a medieval air. She wore camellias in her hair and carried a bouquet of mixed spring flowers.

Small nieces and nephews wearing flower bedecked hats comprised her attendants. They consisted of Kim Fassett's son and daughter, Cap and Romney; Holly Fassett's two, Kristen and Erin; and little Tina Sheldon who lives with the older Fassetts.

Mrs. Madeleine Powers Leoni of Carmel attended her niece's wedding, and Kaafe Fassett, Dorcas' brother, was also present. He is here from London where he has has been living, preparing for his show of paintings at Gump's in March.

Following the ceremony, wedding cake was served at Nepenthe where a spontaneous reception was held which included all who were there.

David, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Owens of Los Angeles, has just completed his Army duty in Vietnam. He is leaving soon for New York to look into the possibilities of a job as news service photographer.

Dorcas will continue for the time being to live in Pacific Grove and work at Ring's on Cannery Row.

Skiing News

"The Action is Heavenly Valley" at the Carmel Woods home of the Jack J. Miller family. Saturday night the Millers had fourteen enthusiastic skiers for dinner and a Heavenly Valley film showing. Dr. and Mrs. Jack Stein had just returned from skiing Aspen, Vail, and Coloradio Springs. The people of Colorado Springs are enraged because a lumber mill has made a haze of smoke over the scenic area. Are you alert members of the Sierra Club?

The guests were requested to wear after ski attire so Mr. Donald Hays wore a Tyrolean ski outfit and down parka he made. The Hays family often rough it by tenting in the snow.

Sunday night was family night as sixteen parents and children had a repeat performance. James Dunn of Pebble Beach, George Bucquet and Steven Stanley of Carmel had just returned from the Robert Louis Stevenson Ski Trip. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bucquet spent the week in Sun Valley where they saw Mr. and Mrs. Shreve Archer former residents of Pebble Beach who live in Sun Valley and ski daily.

Skiing is out for the Frederick Stanleys who are flying to Hawaii Friday, for two weeks of sun bathing and swimming.

The Douglas Browns of Pebble Beach will be aboard the Swedish Liner "Kungsholm in April for a 2½ month trip to Mexico, Florida, and Europe. They will be in Holland when the tulips are at their best.

Drug Information Center Offers Drug Use Symptoms Summary

By Emily Brown

You're the parent of a Carmel teenager. You suspect some of his pals are using drugs. Or suddenly your own youngster's behavior changes radically. You worry.

Or you're a teenager yourself. You know one of your friends is "experimenting" with drugs. You won't "rat" on him — this is against your code. But you wonder what else you could do.

With juvenile drug arrests up 2,000% in eight years, the task of taking some of the worry and wondering out of the local drug scene has been undertaken by the Drug Information Center and Youth Crisis of Monterey County.

It started last June as Carmel's Drug Information Center and came of age late in 1968 as a non-profit corporation furnishing information and confidential counseling at no change.

Because drug use among young people is no longer confined to misfits, dropouts, the socially deprived and mentally disturbed, the Drug Information Center has released a summary on recognition of drug abuse symptoms to Pine Cone readers.

Common manifestations include changes in school attendance, discipline and performance, unusual temper outbursts, poor physical appearance, dark glasses to conceal dilated or contracted pupils, long sleeves to hide needle marks, association with known drug users, borrowing money or stealing to finance drug purchases.

Glue sniffers exude the odor of the inhaled substance, and exhibit excess nasal secretions, watering of the eyes, poor muscular control, drowsiness or unconscicousness.

Users of depressant drugs (barbiturates, called "goofballs") may act "drunk" but without the alcohol breath odor. They may stagger, seem disoriented, be drowsy or fall asleep, and lack interest in school activities.

Excessive activity characterizes a person on stimulants — amphetamines and "bennies." He may be irritable, argumentative, nervous, go long periods without eating or sleeping. His pupils are dilated, his mouth and nose dry, causing him to lick his lips and rub his nose.

Persons using heroin, Demerol, morphine or other narcotics usually start by drinking paregoric or cough medicine containing codeine — empty bottles are a clue. Inhaling heroin powder leaves traces around nostrils, causing redness and rawness. Injecting heroin (mainlining) causes needle scars on inner surfaces of arms and elbows.

Telltale signs of an addict are hypodermic syringes and needles, bent spoons and cotton. The user's behavior is lethargic, his pupils are restricted and do not respond to light.

Except under the influence of marijuana, a "pot" smoker is hard to recognize. In the early stages he may appear animated and hysterical with rapid, loud talking and bursts of laughter. Later he is sleepy or stuporous.

Hallucinogens like LSD are generally used by groups, sitting or lying quietly in a trance-like state. Changes in mood and behavior may include overwhelming fear, perceptual changes in sight, hearing, touch, body image and time.

Linguists Wanted

Young men and women from this area who are proficient in a second language or who are willing to learn one, are being sought by the U. S. Army, according to the local Army recruiter Sgt. Jose Garcia.

Qualified applicants can enlist for linguist training with a written guarantee to receive schooling in one of nearly 30 languages, including Arabic, German, Korean, Russian, Spanish.

Following 24 to 47 weeks of training, especially talented persons may take advanced intelligence schooling to prepare for interrogator-linguists.

Further information may be secured from Sgt. Garcia at Room B-4, Post Office Bldg., Monterey, telephone 372-4742.

Our Subscribers Cover World

You would have completed a creditable world tour if you could follow the mailman delivering Pine Cones out of the confines of the United States.

First to Central America where you would make paper drops in Mexico City and Mazatlan in Mexico; and San Jose, Costa Rica.

Then you could visit South American subscribers' cities; Sao Paulo, Brazil; Arequipa, Peru; and Caracas, Venezuela.

Off-continent, although American, would be Pacific island, Pine Cone deliveries in Hawaii and Guam.

Proceeding to the Orient, you would meet subscribers in Hong Kong and Taipei, Taiwan, Republic of China, and in Vietnam.

Now you and the mailman would drop down to Australia to leave a Pine Cone on a Sidney front porch before a hop to Beirut, Lebanon.

While you were in that part of the world, you'd make deliveries in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia and Libya's Tripoli and Benghazi.

Mail sacks of Pine Cones would lead you next to Athens, Greece; Bern and Montreux, Vaud, Switzerland; and Heidelberg, Germany.

Your final foreign subscriptions would be delivered in England, to readers in London and Leicester, in Brighton, Sussex, and Mayford, North Woking Surrey.

An Ad in the Pine Cone is a Better Value

I'm sure that most of our local businessmen will agree that advertising in the Yellow Pages is one of the best ways to get new business. It's always gratifying when someone tells us "I really like to hear that line 'I saw your ad in the Yellow Pages.'" So, if you're a businessman, and have a product or service to sell, we suggest that you reserve your ad (if you haven't already done so) in the next edition of the Yellow Pages. Our salesmen are in town right now. Call us at (375-9531) and we'll see that someone gets in touch with you.

You know, the telephone installer is a good example of the kind of helpful people we've got working for us. He's more than a specialist at installing telephones, he's also a specialist at helping people. The job he does is an individual one, tailored to your particular needs. He puts his technical know-how to work so you get the kind of telephone service you want, and he's supplied with a real "tool chest on wheels" to help him do it. He's got over 150 supply items in his truck that help him tackle your job—which is never quite like anyone else's.

The Monterey Peninsula Y.M.C.A. opened its 1969 Fund Drive last week. Eight hundred peninsula youths participated in last years events, and more are expected this year. This drive is the only source of operating funds for the "Y." All of the money received is used in programs to develop and direct the growth of the Peninsula's future leaders. Those wishing to contribute can do so by contacting the Y.M.C.A. at 373-4166.

Movie Review

Swiss Family Robinson — High adventure with all the necesasry elements. John Mills is warm and believable as the authoritative father, and the rest of the family are great. Clean, wholesome entertainment and a wonderful, welcome relief from the sex, violence and nudity that characterizes most of today's films.

The Magus — Reality and fantasy become entangled in the weird encounters of a cynical young teacher (Michael Caine) with a strange old man (Anthony Quinn).

The Thomas Crown Affair — Steve McQueen is young, wealthy and bored, so he masterminds a bank robbery. The insurance investigator is Faye Dunaway. They fall in love, of course.

Inspector Clouseau — Alan Arkin puts his deadpan stamp on the fumbling French detective formerly played by Peter Sellers. Hilarious comedy contained in a tight plot.

Planet of the Apes—Charlton Heston stars in a science-fiction tale of stranded U.S. space explorers. A great cast make their satire come off.

Charly — Experimental brain surgery changes a mentally retarded young man into a brilliant adult confronted with new and serious problems. Cliff Robertertson, Claire Bloom.

The Yellow Submarine — The Beatles sing the title song, the film is one of outstanding color, wonderful imagination and whimsical monsters.

Buona Sera, Mrs. Campbell — An enterprising Italian matron tries to cope with the sudden return of three Americans with whom she had brief affairs during WWII. Gina Lollobrigida, Peter Lawford, Phil Silvers, Shelley Winters.

Romeo and Juliet — Franco Zeffirelli's production starring Leonard Whiting, 17 as Romeo and Olivia Hussey, 16, as Juliet. A sensitive and poetic picture shot in northern Italy where the tragedy actually occurred.

The Lion In Winter — Peter O'Toole and Katherine Hepburn turn in outstanding performances in this drama of Henry II and his queen. Great dialogue and a great film.

A Challenge For Robin Hood — A well-mounted British version of the adventures of Robin and his merry men brings some variations to the old tales.

Sweet November — Sandy Dennis, one of the hottest acting talents around, and Anthony Newly team in a sparkling contemporary love story.

When We Are Married — Typical British drawing room comedy laid in a small village at the turn of the century. The cast is excellent, the laughs frequent, the chuckles almost continuous. Fine stage fare at the Circle Theatre.

Under The Yum Yum Tree — Fast moving comedy about a flighty girl, her accommodating boy friend, her worldly-wise aunt and a landlord who epitomizes the wolf fraternity. Great stuff. At the Studio Theatre-Restaurant.

J.B. Priestly's
When We Are Married
a farce comedy
directed by Charles Thomas

Brilliant Performances By Cast Saves 'When We Are Married'

Rare indeed is a play, in particular a comedy, that survives the years kindly.

For the most part, they become as dated as the number of years that have accumulated in the interim between a successful production and the revival.

One of those that survived the years, for example, was "You Can't Take It With You," which was revived a couple of years ago on Broadway and enjoyed a somewhat more than moderate success, primarily because the entire premise of the play was so zany that it retained its freshness.

Unfortunately, the years haven't been so kind to J. B. Priestly's "When We Are Married" which opened last weekend at the Circle Theatre.

The cast labors diligently under the deft direction of Charles Thomas, and their efforts make this a rewarding evening in the theater, despite their struggle with the vehicle.

In 1938, when the play was first produced, the first act would have been full of rousing laughs.

Today, the sheer performances of the actors elicits a few chuckles, more so than the actual lines.

The action picks up in the second act, and the third act is truly funny, crackling with a timeless wit, redeeming the contrived plot.

One of the great problems with Priestly's play is the fact that is that the basic premises — "So you thought you were married all these years, but the minister wasn't authorized . . ." has been used many times in the intervening years, and the situations have all been used before.

Priestly, being a master craftsman, does give his actors some really funny lines, and the Circle Players make the most of them.

I was particularly impressed by Evelyn Hughes, a Carmel High School freshman, who had the truest accent of the entire cast. She played the part of Ruby, the downstairs maid, and she played it with an amazing finesse and polish.

Emily Ford Leonard, cast as Mrs. Northrop, a hard-bitten, somewhat alcoholic old biddy who had some mysterious function in the kitchen and wore the British costume of domestic service, was fabulous in the part, and received applause every time she concluded a scene.

Ed Shinbrot was convincing as an English gentleman, a loud and bully lout, bristling with pomposity.

Altogether, the cast turned in a brilliant job considering the difficult vehicle they had to work with.

But "When We Are Married," is an enjoyable evening of relaxed mirth, outstanding performances, excellent direction and fine staging.

A.A. Schedules Weekend Meetings

The Monterey Peninsula Fellowship of Alcoholics Anonymous will host two open meetings at the Pacific Grove Community Center, 515 Junipero St., this weekend.

The first, to be held on Friday, Feb. 21 at 8:30 p.m. will feature a talk by Paul G., secretary of the San Francisco Central Office.

This is the second of a series of regular monthly meetings which are open to the public. Paul G. has had many years of practical experience in his work with the alcoholic who still suffers.

Physicians, members of the clergy, and persons serving in counselling positions, particularly, will find him a most notable and informative speaker.

On Saturday night, Feb. 22, the Tri-County Intergroup of A.A. which includes Monterey, San Benito, and Santa Cruz Counties, meets in the same building, again at 8:30 p.m. to hear Stan W. of the San Francisco area.

This meeting is also open to the general public and all interested parties are invited to attend.

Refreshments will be served following each meeting.

'Portrait of Spain' Comes to Sunset

"Portraits of Spain" comes to the Sunset Auditorium tomorrow night, Feb. 21, when Curtis Nagel narrates in person his award-winning film of Spain and the people who inhabit it.

He finds Spain a wonderful, fascinating country with a variety of unsurpassed attractions, and Nagel's camera is sensitive to the changing moods of the Spanish countryside.

Madrid he explores in detail, walks with you along the colorful El Prado and takes you to the always colorful Goya Festival, one of Spain's triumvirate that includes Velasquez and El Greco.

He turns his expressive camera on Seville, showing you the city from the famed Alcazar, a breathtaking example of Spanish architecture, and wandering in the annual fair, one of the most famous in all of Europe.

Toledo and Barcelona come in for scrutiny by Nagel, as well as the Costa Brava with its sparkling bays and castles, the Basque country of the Pyrenees Mountains and the "running of the bulls" at Pamplona.

This is a professionally produced, feature length color travel-adventure film, with in-person narration by its producer-cameraman.

Tickets are on sale at the Central Box Office in Carmel, Abinante Music Store in Monterey, and will be on sale at the Sunset Auditorium beginning at 7:15 the evening of the performance.

The program begins at 8:15 p.m.

PARTY PLANS . . .

"Sparkling Spanish Supper"

Tomorrow night (February 21), the absorbing new travel film "Portraits in Spain" will be enjoyed at Carmel's Sunset Auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

This doesn't give us much time to plan and shop for a pre-or-after cinema Spanish supper, but the following ideas have been chosen for easy preparation.

When traveling in Spain, one soon discovers that the native food is subtly seasoned, not hot or fiery. Among the "must taste" dishes are the delectable gazpacho and paella.

Meals usually end with one or more of the delicious fruits which Spain grows in abundance. It may be simply a sweet orange, descended from those brought originially to Valencia by the Portuguese. It could be a compote of dried cooked fruits flavored with their mellow jerez (sherry). Or most surely, a refreshing slice of Rota melon with Jerez grapes. Native wines and cheeses are also great.

Gazpacho Cold Soup

Four cucumbers; 2 cans solid pack tomatoes; 6 whole canned pimientos; 2 onions; 6 T. olive oil and wine vinegar, each; 4 cloves garlic, crushed; 2 cups ice water; bread crumbs; salt and coarse black pepper; garnishes.

Chop vegetables as fine as possible or use a blender. Mix oil and vinegar and pour over vegetable mixture with water and bread crumbs. Season to taste.

Chill and serve in glass soup or punch cups to see the bright colors readily. Garnish with chopped hard-cooked egg, croutons, chopped onion, green pepper and celery. This is known as a soup-salad with subtle flavors a la Espanola. Serves 8.

Paella

Half cup pure fresh olive oil; 2 cut-up fryer chickens; 2 cups cubed ham; 2 T. chopped onion; 2 cloves garlic, minced; 1 can drained, peeled tomatoes; 1 lb. shrimp, shelled; 1 doz. clams and mussels, in shells, each. If fresh ones are unavailable use the canned with or without shells.

Two cups raw long-grain white rice; 2 cans chicken broth or use chicken bouillon cubes with boiling water; ½ t. powdered saffron; 1 small pkg. frozen green peas; 2 sliced canned pimientos with juice; salt, paprika and white pepper to taste.

Pre-heat oven to 300 F. Heat oil in paella pan or large skillet and brown chicken; add ham, with onion, garlic, tomatoes, shrimp, clams and mussels. Mix in raw rice.

In another pan heat chicken broth and seasonings. Pour this over rice-meat mixture; simmer 15 minutes. Add peas and garnish with pimiento strips and bake just until rice is tender but firm. Serve in cooking pan. Serves 8.

Sangria

Pour 1 qt. sweet Port into large glass pitcher. Add ice cubes and 1 qt. club soda, the juice of 2 oranges and 1 fresh lime. Whole cloves, powdered cinnamon and ginger are added to taste, but very sparingly. Decorate with thin orange, lemon and lime slices. Serve, as in Spain, from the pitcher into water goblets. Makes 8 servings.

Orange Custard

One cup orange juice (fresh or diluted frozen); 2 cups cream; 6 eggs; 1 cup granulated sugar, grated orange rind.

Beat eggs and orange juice with cream. Make a caramel syrup, enough to cover bottom of baking dish, by almost burning 1 cup sugar. Place total mixture in 350 F. oven until firm. Test with broom straw . . . unless vacuums prevent . . . then a silver knife blade should tell you. Top with grated orange rind.

In Spain, where custards are called flan, they keep pouring the mixture from one jar to another 101 times! Americans stationed (or living) in Spain couldn't care less what is going on in the cocina as long as someone else is creating the dish.

So, we suggest it would be less tiring to use a hand or electric blender . . . but . . . we're told the real secret of this particular flan is to use the old Spanish trick.

Why not finish off with this less tiring.

Compota al Jerez

Gently simmer in sherry your favorite combination of dried (previously soaked) fruits, such as apricots, prunes, peaches. Serve with a flavoring of anisette, topped by sliced almonds or pistachio nuts.

Buen apetito y tiempo para gustarlos!

SPIRIT OF THE GRAPE — This is Bacchus, both Greek and Roman god of wine, as a boy. The bronze statuette is 18th century French and from the historical collection of the Christian Brothers' "500 Years of Wine in the Arts."

Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art Association Honors The Grape

By Louise Cook

The Monterey Museum of Art Association is presenting a unique collection of historical works of art relating to "Wine in the Arts." The collection covers 500 years and belongs to the Christian Brothers.

The very earliest and the most recent pieces are the jewels of the show, The exquisite illuminated page from a French Gothic Book of Hours, representing September, dates from 1490. There is a woodcut, dating from 1476, showing Joshua and Caleb carrying an exaggerated grape cluster.

Picasso is represented by a color lithograph of Pan in a grape arbor (dated 1956) and there is a small woodcut of grapes and leaves by Aristide Maillol.

Included in the exhibit are comic portrayals of growing the grapes, making and drinking the wine by Honore Daumier. Handsome silver and guilt chalices and tankards date from the 17th and 18th centuries.

A color lithograph of the "Fox and the Grapes" by Oskar Kokoschka has humor and sentiment.

As you enter the museum a striking color lithograph by Hans Erni arrests your eye. This modern jewel is of Bacchus and Nymph and is a rhythmic composition showing elegant line and subtle restraint in the use of color.

The "Wine in the Arts" presentation of the Christian Brothers Wineries is so large that the Association's Museum in Carmel was too small to display the entire exhibit, so half of the artifacts, art and other facets of the history of wine and winemaking are on display the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History.

NAACP Head At All Saints' Sunday

Opening the Lenten series of Discussion Forums at All Saints' Church next Sunday will be the new president of the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Major James C. Taylor (USA. Ret.).

Maj. Taylor, who is also an instructor in political science and Black studies at the Monterey Peninsula College, will lead a two-part discussion on the history of the Negro in America.

The forum takes place following the 9:15 a.m. Family Eucharist in the parish hall at 9th and Lincoln Sts. The commmunity is welcome to these events and services.

Included in the open series will be a discussion of "Drug Use and Abuse" and later in the spring "Human Sexuality and Morality." The series is under the supervision of the clergy of the Episcopal parish.

Monday night a Festival Eucharist will be celebrated at 5:30 p.m. in honor of St. Matthias the Apostle. The "New Liturgy" of the Episcopal Church will be used. Celebrant will be the headmaster of All Saints' Day School, the Rev. Peter Farmer.

WILDERNESS MEET

The 11th Biennial Wilderness Conference, sponsored by the Siera Club and the Sierra Club Foundation, will be held at the Hilton Hotel in San Francisco Mar. 14-16. "Wilderness, the Edge of Knowledge" is the theme.

Much of the Conference will be devoted to Alaska, the unique quality of its wilderness and the difficulties involved in preserving it.

This topic now has an unforeseen urgency with the appointment of Alaska Governor Walter J. Hickel as Secretary of the Interior. The Secretary has been invited to participate in the Conference.

Also on the program will be former Secretary of the Interior, Stewart L. Udall, who will deliver the Friday evening Banquet address.

POPULAR SUBJECT — This Carmel Valley barn is one of the most photographed, sketched, painted and otherwise portrayed in all of northern California. This oil, titled appropriately enough "The White Barn," was done by Carmel seascape artist Girard Aken, who painted the scene to have some dry-land paintings to hang in his Carmel gallery and to prove his versatility.

Two Photographers Exhibit At Sunset Feb. 22 Through Mar. 28

The Friends of Photography Gallery, at San Carlos at 9th in Carmel, will have an opening on Feb. 22 of a showing of two outstanding photographer's works.

Wayne Gravning, born in North Dakota in 1935 began photographic work in 1958. He has studied with Ansel Adams and at the University of New Mexico under David Read. He has photographed with Minor White and is presently a cinematographer with Sandia Corp. in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

He has had various showings including the George Eastman House, the Museum of Modern Art, the Quivira Gallery and the University of New Mexico and many others.

His philosophy seems to be to let his photographs speak for themselves and finds this more satisfactory than trying to use words to describe his works.

Oliver L. Gagliani is a native Californian, born in Placerville in 1917. He began combining his prime interest in music with photography prior to World War II. During the World War II, he began using a photo-journalistic approach to photograph the people of New Guinea. Later, he was greatly impressed by Paul Strand's photography and after attending California School of Fine Arts under Ansel Adams, and a later workshop with Minor White, his serious interest in photography was confirmed.

At this stage in his photography he says that first, "you must connect with the subject in the sense that you recognize that a meaningful image can be created, to convey as well as document, the interplay which occurs between yourself and the discovered image. One must wait until the hidden meaning is revealed. Recognize that there is a spiritual meaning in the subject but wait until the climax of its revelation, as your own personal spirit gets out of the way."

"Photography in the future will eventually return to the primary essentials of the single image, but the return will be one of greater wisdom and depth."

His shows have included Photo 68, Arizona State, Light-7, Focus Gallery, Oakland Museum, California Legion of Honor, George Eastman House and many others.

The show will run from the 22nd of February thru Mar. 28th. The gallery is open from 1-5 p.m. daily except Mondays.

James Peter Cost Seascape Will Grace Reader's Digest Cover

Carmel seascape artist James Peter Cost's painting "Twilight Sail Off Pescadero Point" will appear on the June, 1969 Readers' Digest cover.

The oil on canvas work is a part of the private collection of the Readers' Digest and portrays the turbulent seas off the point as the sun sets, vividly catching the mood of the Pacific.

A visit to the Carmel Seascape Gallery on Dolores St. and seeing the finished, meticulous work of James Peter Cost is always a pleasant interlude to the day.

Last December, Cost visited the northeast United States from Philadelphia to Rockport, Massachusetts in search of picturesque snow scenes.

Two of these are now being shown in his gallery. They illustrate the reasons this noted Carmel artist is receiving more and more national recognition.

Besides being listed in the current Who's Who in the West, he has been notified that he will also be listed in the 1970 Marquis Who's Who of America.

Journal of the West, in October, 1968, published a critique written by Cost about the artist George Caleb Bingham.

A story about Cost is included in Dorothy Johnson's Artists of Carmel, and Impresario Magazine of the Arts published one of Cost's seascapes on the cover of their August, 1967 issue.

Betty Hoag Attends So. Cal. Meeting

Mrs. Betty Hoag, Research Director of the Carmel Museum of Art, and Mrs. Dorothy Ronald, Curator of Colton Hall in Monterey, attended the Eleventh Annual Southern California Symposium Conference of California Historical Societies held at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles on Feb. 7 and 8.

Theme of the convention was "Reflections — a Salute to California's Bicentennial," and emphasis was placed on Los Angeles' cultural past.

Important lectures were given by Tom Owen, of the Los Angeles Public Library, about movie palaces of the past; by Dr. Edwin Carpenter, of Huntington Library, about outstanding art collections in Los Angeles County; by Ward Ritchie, about early-day printers, authors and booksellers; by Dr. Carl S. Dentzel, of Southwest Museum, about work of the Los Angeles Cultural Heritage Board; and by Dr. Richard E. Oglesby, of University of California at Santa Barbara, about the possible fate of California should she continue to mis-use her natural resources.

Dr. Oglesby's speech gained drama from the fact that he had just arrived from his home in Santa Barbara, where the beach had that day begun to see the effects of off-shore oil leakage.

Mrs. Hoag and Mrs. Ronald reported that representatives of all other historical societies from the state with whom they talked are eagerly looking forward to the 1970 annual convention which will be held on our Monterey Peninsula.

CREATIVE PAIR — Irene Lagorio, Carmel artist, and Dennis Sutton Francis, Bay area poet, review her drawings prepared under the sponsorship of the chapelbrook foundation, for an illustrated book of Francis' poems titled, "This Open Zoo — A Bestiary."

Chapelbrook Grant To Irene Lagorio

With her customary enthusiasm, Irene Laborio, versatile Carmel artist painter, sculptress, mosaicist, muralist, printmaker — is now channeling her energies into still another field — book illustrations.

The new project is under the sponsorship of the Chapelbrook Foundation.

With the Chapelbrook grant, Miss Laborio is illustrating a series of original poems by Dennis Sutton Francis, Bay Area poet, to be compiled in a verse-visual book entitled "THIS OPEN ZOO — A Bestiary."

With this collaboration, artist and writer explore certain aspects of the human condition exemplified by legendary and natural characteristics of birds and beasts. Adding to the significance of the project will be an introduction by Alfred Frankenstein, nationally-known author and art/music critic of the San Francisco Chronicle, and authority on Nineteenth Century American art.

The Chapelbrook Foundation awards grants to American writers, artists, composers and scholars of established reputations to complete a particular project in their field of specialization.

During this past year, Miss Lagorio has been working at both her Oakland and Carmel studios, with time out for "cross country" trips to supervise installation of her murals. The artist's many Peninsula friends will be delighted to learn that she has closed her Oakland studio and established full-time residence at Carmel in what was formerly the Forest Hill School. Now affectionately known as "The Maybeck Inn," this structure is one of Carmel's two Bernard Maybeck landmarks.

Monterey Bay Psychological Association Meetings

The psychology of the adolescent, his "alienation" and current difficulties, will be the focus of the February meeting of the Monterey Bay Psychological Association, to be held on Friday, Feb. 28, at 1 p.m., at Malio's Restaurant, Santa Cruz Wharf.

Lt. David Esty, Sr., from the Capitola Police Department, will conduct a discussion group composed of young people from his community who will present their point of view on such issues as the personal goals of young people, and the "drug scene" present and future. This discussion technique is called a micro-lab encounter demonstration, which emphasizes frank meaningful communication.

For further information contact Jane Blauer at 624-8081 or 373-0116.

Town House Film

The Carmel Foundation Town House program on Wednesday, Feb. 26, at 2:30 p.m. will be a film showing Canadian Wild Life, loaned by the Carmel Library.

Reminiscences And Future For Post Office As Strong Retires

By GUNNAR NORBERG

"Forty years is enough," said Carmel Postermaster Fred Strong quite simply when asked why he was retiring tomorrow from the government service which has been his entire career work, though he is still nine years shy of the mandatory retirement age of 70.

Those 40 years of his, by the way, represent half the entire length of time that the Carmel post office has existed — and nearly two-thirds of the time it has been located in Carmel. That's a rather unlikely story in itself, and we'll get to it a little later, but first let's talk about Fred Strong who's retiring tomorrow.

The La Playa Hotel will be the scene of a public dinner to honor Fred Strong on Saturday evening, Mar. 8. The dinner will begin at 8 p.m., preceded by a no-host cocktail hour, and the cost for the dinner will be $5, which includes tax.

For reservations contact assistant postmaster William P. Woolsey, or Bob Gingery or Sidney Trevvet, both postal employees at the Carmel post office.

Fred Strong did his first postal work in Carmel at Christmas time in 1928 when he was part of the extra seasonal help. It wasn't until June 1, 1929, that he got his first regular Carmel post office job, and it was on that same day that a new Carmel postmaster — William L. Overstreet — just appointed by the then new President Herbert Hoover — took office. (This was the same Bill Overstreet who had founded the Carmel Pine Cone fourteen years earlier).

Dolores Location

The post office was located at that time in the premises now occupied by Brosche Interiors, on Dolores street near 7th, and the upstairs space was the seat of Carmel's city government — its Council Chambers and municipal offices. But neither federal nor city government owned the building, which was instead the property of the distinguished artist, M. DeNeale Morgan and of her brothr, Tom Morgan.

The Morgans' sister, Mrs. Jeanie Morgan Klenke, long active in local civic affairs, today maintains the M. DeNeale Morgan Studio, on Lincoln near 7th.

The ground floor space used by the post office was only a little more than a quarter the size of the two-level space which it occupies today, and a little less than one-sixth the space which retiring Postmaster Fred Strong says the post office will need by the middle of next year (1970) when the lease on its present premises terminates. The post office now uses about 12,500 square feet of floor area and will need 21,000 when its present lease expires, according to Strong.

Now Inadequate

"We are badly in need of more space," said Strong, "and I believe the Post Office Department wants to have a larger post office building to be located in downtown Carmel. If the department can't get a large enough building here in the downtown area, it will have to have one building here and another outside central Carmel. In view of the department's preference," Strong added, "it appears to me that the only likely space large enough for post office purposes would be somewhere on the city's Sunset Center property."

If a post office building were to be situated on the Sunset set, the situation which existed when Fred Strong joined the post office back in the 1928-29 period, might again exist — with city government and the post office once again sharing the same site — but, this time, a much larger site, and with the city as landlord.

Present Plans

Both the Pruitt plan and the Riling report, now being studied by city fathers, propose moving city hall offices to what is known as the gymnasium area in the main Sunset Center building.

If the City were to construct a building of the size mentioned by Strong — some 21,000 square feet of floor space — and if it were to be built from the proceeds of a general-obligation bond — the average annual cost, in terms of principal and interest, would be likely to approximate something like $36,000. Even if a rental scale just sufficient to amortize the cost of the building were to be applied, this would mean a rental cost to the post office department, of some $3,000 a month.

Asked about the kind of rental the Post Office Department might conceivably have in mind, Strong said this would be a matter which would have to be resolved in the future and that he could naturally not speculate upon it. When the City would consider a rental scale which would only amortize actual building costs could also be a seriously moot matter.

Possible Move

However, one recent rumor has suggested the possibility that the post office might conceivably be moved outside the incorporated limits of the city because of the much larger space which it is to require. An annex at Carmel Rancho Shopping Center is a possibility. This would be a second building through which the mail could be worked and rural deliveries made. If such a situation were to be seriously threatened, it would be likely that city officials would seek by very possible means to retain it in the downtown Carmel area.

It would also be likely that the citizens of the city would insistently urge such action be taken by those city officials. For the post office has become an institution dear to the heart of every true Carmelite and one which he wants definitely to keep in downtown Carmel.

This feeling about the post office was well expressed in a book written a quarter of a century ago by Daisy Bostick, long retired local realtor and civic worker. The book is called "Carmel — Yesterday and Today" and in it Daisy Bostick wrote: ". . . There is no mail delivery in Carmel, and you are likely to meet almost everyone you know at the post office. . . . The post office, as it stands, is a Carmel institution . . . residents very much object to the numbering of houses, the installation of sidewalks, the uniformed mail carriers, all of which would be required if so radical a change as mail delivery were to be made by Uncle Sam. . . ."

High Praise

Asked for comment about retiring Postmaster Fred Strong, former Postmaster Ernest Bixler had high praise for him and for his work.

"Fred Strong," he said, "was a most conscientious and extremely well-informed worker — and he was always thoroughly reliable. A fine man."

"He always tried hard," said Mayor Barney Laiolo, "and he did an excellent job."

When Fred Strong turns over his books and keys tomorrow afternoon, he will turn them over to Assistant Postmaster William P. ("Bill") Woolsey, who has worked in the Carmel Post Office since December 1946.

Born and brought up New York City he came west at the beginning of World War II, serving with the 7th Infantry Division which was initially stationed at Fort Ord. Later it was moved to the Aleutians, to Hawaii, to Kwajalein, and to Leyte in the Philippines where Woolsey earned the Silver Star.

New Postmaster

Woolsey is 54 years of age, having been born Apr. 15, 1914. Speaking about his boss, Bill Woolsey spoke, in effect, for all the 43 Carmel postal employees, when he said, "Fred Strong is respected by everybody here in the post office, and we regret to see him leave."

In all probability a new postmaster will be appointed from the three highest in a Civil Service examination. This has been the usual practice of the present administration.

Though he had applied for retirement, and though eventually his application had been approved, Fred Strong also said that he would miss "going every day down to the post office" as he had done for so many years, even though he still felt that his decision to retire remained the right one.

"I will always be proud," he said, "to have had the opportunity to have been the postmaster in a remarkable place like Carmel."

Born just south of San Jose, March 2, 1908, Fred Strong grew up and attended school, first in the San Jose area, and then in Mountain View to which his family moved when was 10. It was in Mountain View that he did his first temporary postal work — relieving mail carriers during vacations.

Three years after coming to Carmel, he met and married Frances Ricketts who became his wife in 1931. She is the sister of the late Ed Ricketts, a marine biologist, who was immortalized as "Doc" in the John Steinbeck 'Cannery Row' stories.

Long-Time Resident

The Strongs have moved to Del Mesa Carmel where they plan to spend their retirement years and he will take his paints down from the shelf where they have been for 40 years.

When Strong was asked about postmasters and post office locations of the past, an unusual development was revealed.

The Carmel post office was located — for the first 14 years of its existence — in what is today the Carmel Valley Village area.

Established in 1889, the first postmaster was Antonio Nunes. The next postmaster was Burritt E. Cahoon who held the position from 1893 to 1899. Following him was John J. Hilbrom, whose appointment dates from 1899. He, in turn, was followed by Montgomery M. Whittock, who took the job in 1902. All these men operated the post office — known as 'Carmel' — while it was in the Carmel Valley. In that period there were few people in what is now Carmel and its immediate environs.

Since the local post office had little information beyond the names and dates when the postmasters in the upper Carmel Valley kept their post offices open, it was difficult to locate additional data. Eventually, however, a conversation with 88-year-old Joe Hitchcock who has not forgotten much that he has ever learned during his long life, produced some answers — not only about the Valley postmasters but also the reason why the Carmel post ofice came to the Carmel of today.

Recollection

While Hitchcock had no recollection of the first postmaster, Antonio Nunes, he did know about the others. Not only

Letter To Editor

Dear Sir,

Last week I expressed my feelings to you personally in regard to the Edgemere case. My complaint was that your reporter, Mr. Norberg, came out with a one-sided report of the city council meeting of February 5th, which appeared on the front page of the February 6th issue. He explained in great detail what the members of the Citizens Committee had to say, but neglected to say one word of what I had said in support of Edgemere, and I must have spoken at least five minutes.

I tried to get a tape recorded copy of what I had said, but was told at City Hall that the recording machine was out of order that night.

Many people have approached me since and expressed their feelings about the way one man is still trying to ruin the peace and harmony in this lovely community. After all, he was defeated in the last election and received only 617 votes out of 4174 — divided by 5, as there were 5 candidates.

For harmony's sake I am not going to repeat what I said at that stormy February 5th council meeting. The Edgemere case is now closed, at least let us hope so. It would be very desirable if ex-councilman Norberg and his 39 followers who signed his petition, would now devote their spare time and energy to more important matters, such as air pollution, water pollution, traffic problems, conservation, etc., and they can count on me to do my part. These are problems in which the entire population of Monterey County should be vitally interested, and one does not have to live within the city limits to give a helping hand.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for what you and the Pine Cone are doing for Carmel. It keeps me up to date on what is going on in our Community. I subscribed to your paper when I lived here from 1924 to 1932 and have enjoyed it since we returned in 1965.

Sincerely yours,
Albert K. Molendyk

Planning Meeting

For the 8th straight year the Monterey County Planning Council invites all planning conscious citizens from Monterey and other nearby counties to attend its all day conference at Asilomar. The date has been set for Mar. 8.

The council is composed of all city and county planning commissioners, their staffs and associates in the county. Since the main function of this group is to provide a forum for planning discussion, the conference meets this objective by providing outstanding planners or their associates to speak on topics of importance to the planning process. Questions from the audience are encouraged.

Donald Hummel, formerly with the Department of Housing and Urban Development in Washington, D.C., will be the keynote speaker. He will discuss the significance of the 1968 housing act.

All those interested in attending may obtain registration information by calling the Monterey County Planning Department, 422-9018.

Tax Relief Offered To Senior Citizens

Senior citizens who filed for property tax relief under the recently enacted Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance program may also be eligible for relief under the provisions of Proposition 1A, according to Martin Huff, executive officer of the Franchise Tax Board.

"This means that even though a senior citizen received a property tax refund from us under the Senior Citizens program, he should still file the proper form from his county assessor and file with him to receive the $70 property tax refund granted under Proposition 1A, passed by the 1968 Legislature," Huff said.

These are two separate and unrelated programs, Huff added, and receiving benefits from the other.

Those individuals who are 65 or older, own their own homes, have paid their property taxes, and meet certain income requirements, may be eligible for Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance.

Forms for assistance under the Senior Citizens program may be requested from the Franchise Tax Board, Box 1588, Sacramento, California.

Forms used to claim the $70 property tax refund under the provisions of Proposition 1A should be obtained from the county assessor and not the Franchise Tax Board, Huff said.

IKTHYS Will Hold USO Rummage Saie

IKTHYS, the youth group of the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula, will hold a rummage sale at the USO on Camino Estero, on Friday, Feb. 28, beginning at 9:00 a.m.

Mrs. Victor Harber and Charles Pearson Jr. are in charge and will be available on Thursday, Feb. 27, to receive articles.

Assisting as sales staff on day will be members of IKTHYS, and the following parents: Mrs. John Douglas, Mrs. Willis Shepard, Mrs. Ed Powers and Mrs. Gene Vandervort.

The young people hope to raise sufficient funds to pay for their Easter Week trip to Ensenada, Mexico, where they will camp on the beach and spend their days helping to set up a Bible school class and classrooms at a nearby orphanage. Mr. and Mrs. Victor Harber are sponsors of the group.

All Saints' Program

A series of classes conducted at All Saints' Church Parish library have been started, and everyone is welcome.

Each Thursday at 7:30 p.m., Father Farmer teaches "Techniques of Christian Living," and Father Hill discusses "Bible Study, Hebrews," on Thursdays at 11 a.m., and on Saturdays at 10 a.m., Father Cunningham conducts Children's Confirmation Instruction.

Three discussion forums will be held on Sundays at 10 a.m. in Parish Hall, beginning Feb. 23 and continuing through April.

"Black Power" is the subject on Feb. 23, Mar. 2 and 9. "Drug Use and Abuse" on Mar. 16 and 23 and "Human Sexuality and Morality" on Apr. 13 and 20.

Bay Academy Will Present 'Insight'

A student - to - student program, which its youthful creators call "Insight" and say it "has some of everything," is booked at Sunset Auditorium the weekend of Feb. 28 - Mar. 2.

Producers for the show, from music to staging, are students at Monterey Bay Academy, coeducational boarding high school near Watsonville operated by the Seventh - day Adventist Church but with a student body of varied faiths.

David Johnston, editor of the school's weekly newspaper, reports that "Insight" grew out of students' convictions that today's issues on campus and off are brought into focus only in terms of relevant religious concepts.

"We hope to put the swing back into life which around us is slipping into apathy or even hopelessness," said Dale White, a Peninsula resident and participant in "Insight".

The school editor added, "Students can expect to hear some powerful propositions, but no preaching — we don't have time for that."

Mrs. Morse Named To Hospital Board

Mrs. Samuel F. B. Morse has been appointed a trustee of Community Hospital to complete the unexpired term of Shreve Archer Jr. who resigned recently upon leaving the community, Dr. A. Carol McKenney, president of the Board of Trustees, announced today.

Mrs. Morse previously served as a trustee.

Meantime, Dr. McKenney announced the appointment of a nominating committee for new trustees to be elected at the annual meeting of members of the hospital to be held Mar. 26.

Chairman of the nominating committee is Col. Allen Griffin who is being assisted by George O. Carlson and Robert O. McMahan.

Trustees whose terms are expiring are J. O. Handley, Loren E. Smith, J. Arch Butts, Mrs. John M. Marble and Arthur C. Stewart.

Handley and Smith are ineligible for reelection because they are completing two consecutive full terms.

The annual meeting will be held 4 p.m., Wednesday, Mar. 26 in the conference room of the hospital.

Lenten Devotions

A series of Lenten devotions will bring together the women of the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula, and other interested women of the area, beginning Monday, Feb. 24, at 12:30 p.m., and weekly thereafter through Lent. Those attending are asked to bring a sack lunch and their favorite meditation for this season.

Christian Science Bible Lesson

"The Lord God hath given me the tongue of the learned, that I should know how to speak a word in season to him that is weary: he wakeneth morning by morning, he wakeneth mine ear to hear as the learned." This verse is part of the Bible Lesson-Sermon titled "Mind," and will be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

One of the selections to be included from the denominational textbook is the following: "Mind is not necessarily dependent upon educational processes. It possesses itself all beauty and poetry, and the power of expressing them. Spirit, God, is heard when the senses are silent" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy).

Carmel Travelers

(Mr. and Mrs. John G. Bannister of Orinda have had a summer vacation home in Carmel. They are presently on a tour of South America, and their amusing letters will be carried periodically in the Pine Cone.)

We returned to Lima from Cuzco where we all headed for the showers — the two hardy souls who had attempted a shower at the St. Augustin Hotel in Cuzco gave such unglowing reports that the rest of us decided we would have to stand one another until we reached Lima again!

Our guide in Lima was a darling young girl by the name of Liliana, and we all promptly fell in love with her! We even wrote her a song, which we sang to her on one of our tours, and she nearly burst into tears, she was so moved. I neglected to mention that we have very proficient "song writers" in our group, so we have songs to cover most every occasion!

Peru is a country of contrasts. There are beautiful homes and well-dressed people; and then there are the "squatter's" hovels, and the bare-foot natives. Everyone wants to come to Lima because they think they will make a lot of money there, but only 40% of the people work because there are not enough jobs, and not enough money to develop industry. Education is compulsory to age 14, and the people are anxious to learn. The rainfall in Peru is only one inch per year, so many of the hovels don't even have roofs on them. They build of adobe brick and start building from an outside wall. They move in, and then build the rest of the house as they are living there.

On Tuesday night in Lima, we celebrated two wedding anniversaries in our group — the Bailey Justice's and the Rhett Turner's — at a most outstanding restaurant called "Trece Monedas." It was formerly a Spanish home which has been turned into a restaurant. On Wednesday we had a delicious barbecued chicken lunch at a farm outside of Lima which had formerly been a convent. From there we visited a golf resort, which reminded us somewhat of Silverado. Some of the bungalows are at the top of a steep hill, and you ride an electric TRAM to reach them. The resort was complete with swiming pool, tennis courts, club house, and even some alpaca sauntering along the fairway!

One of the most amusing sights on the streets of Lima are the old, dilapidated cars which are used as cheap taxis. They are not only ancient, but they are odd bits and pieces of different used cars, semingly held together by baling wire. Needless to say, we didn't risk our necks riding in any of these — just crossing the street is enough of a challenge — pedestrians having the right of way is purely a local custom in California, I am convinced! All they do is honk the horn, and then "everybody look out" ! !

We had the dubious privilege of gazing on the remains of Pizarro in a glass coffin in the Cathedral, and when I suggested that Jack stand beside the old boy for a picture, he flatly refused!

You may be wondering why I haven't mentioned any golf games at yet, but that is because those of us who made the Cuzco trip did not play in either Panama or Lima. Our first golf game will be in Santiago, Chile, and along about now Jack is really looking forward to it.

The greatest disappointment Jack has experienced is the discovery that the potato originated in Peru instead of Ireland! He's making every effort to re-educate local guides on this score, but so far as has been completely unsuccessful!

Must get this in the mail, so adios for now.

CON AMOR,
Peg and Jack

Citizens' Group On Edgemere Request

What now? What next? Those were questions discussed this week by irate Carmelites who had strongly objected to the recent granting of a permit to Edgemere Cottages to expand two motel units while remodeling them.

The final decision had been made by the City Council at its regular February meeting.

Long in the forefront of the effort to prevent the granting of the Edgemere permit was the Carmel Citibens' Committee which had scheduled a board of directors meeting as the Pine Cone went to press last week. The board meeting had been scheduled to consider the stand which the Committee would take with regard to the recently legalized residential-area motels, in view of the expansion aspect of the Edgemere remodeling request to which the Committee had steadily objected.

Commenting on the board meeting, Admiral C. W. Fisher (USN, Ret.) said:

"We have decided to look into the question of possible amendment of the existing motel-control ordinance, as well as into the possibility of a new control ordinance, from the point of view of what is legally possible in order to see that what is legislated, will stand up in court without question."

Asked for elaboration of this statement, he said that this was all the Citizens' Committee board wanted to say at this time.

Meanwhile the City Planning Commission was due to hold public hearings yesterday afternoon on four possible amendments to the existing ordinance which had been itself intended to control and restrict residential-area motels.

Sunset Notes

by Dr. James E. Gilman

The Sunset Cultural Center will be a very busy place tomorrow evening, Feb. 21, with the opening of a new photography show at the Friends of Photography Studio, a showing of "Portraits of Spain" by the Explorers Club of San Francisco, and an Open House at the Carmel Graphics Center.

The hours of each event are so arranged that it will be possible to take in all three events in a leisurely way. Ample free parking will be available.

Carmel Graphics Center

The Graphics Center will hold Open House from 7:30 to 11 p.m. tomorrow evening, Feb. 21. The Center was organized by a group of local talented people to develop public interest and participation in lithography, seriography, etching and woodblock printing.

In addition to using the Center as a workshop, the artists in residence also teach classes in their respective specialties. Samples of their work will form the basis of the Open House tomorrow evening.

Explorerama Carmel

"Portraits of Spain" will be shown at 8:15 p.m. at the Sunset Auditorium. This is a full length, color travel-adventure film. Curtis Nagel will be present to give the narration of this fascinating two hour picture of Spain.

Mr. Nagel is an old hand at the business of travel and adventure film making and has put together the best of six months shooting into this fine picture.

Tickets are available at the Sunset Box Office just prior to curtain time. They are also available at the Central Box Office, Carmel, phone 624-6739, and at Abinante Music Store, Monterey, phone 372-5893.

New Photography Exhibit

The Friends of Photography will hold their Open House from 8 to 10:30 p.m. on the 21st to celebrate the opening of the Gravning-Gagliani exhibit of fine photography.

Wayne Gravning, a native of Fargo, North Dakota, began his photographic career in 1935. He studied with Ansel Adams, and with David Read at the University of New Mexico. He has worked with Minor White, whose exhibit at the Center just closed after a most successful showing.

Gravning's pictures have been exhibited at the George Eastman House, the Museum of Modern Art, the Quivira Gallery and the University of New Mexico. He presently lives in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Oliver L. Gagliani was born in Placerville, California in 1917. He attended the California School of Fine Arts and studied under Ansel Adams. He also studied with Minor White and Paul Strand.

During World War II he began using a photo-journalistic approach to his photography and spent some time in New Guinea photographing the natives.

Gagliani has worked extensively on an interpretation of the California State Park System. He has exhibited at Indiana University, George Eastman House, Focus Gallery, Oakland Public Museum and the San Francisco Museum of Art.

The Gravning-Gagliani exhibit will be at the Center through March 28th. The Friends of Photography studio is open daily,, except Mondays, from 1 to 5 p.m. Admission is free.

Day Students Hear Conservationist

When veteran conservationist Sterling D. Mummert, visited All Saints' Day School recently, pupils were eager to show him where a chunk of river bank bordering the school property had been carved out by the turbulent Carmel River.

As they surveyed the scene together, Mummert talked to the students about soil erosion, geographical formations, and some of the characteristics of rivers, particularly the Carmel River. He was also kept busy answering a wide assortment of questions which had been steadily accumulating in the minds of the children since the washout occurred.

Mummert, who is now retired and living in Carmel Valley, was for many years an employee to the U.S. Forest Service, the National Parks Service, and the Soil Conservation Service.

My business is not to remake myself but to make the absolute best of what God made. — Robert Browning

Thought For The Week:

Everybody in the world is seeking happiness — and there is one sure way to find it. That is by controlling your thoughts. Happiness doesn't depend on outward conditions. It depends on inner conditions. It isn't what you have or who you are or where you are or what you are doing that makes you happy or unhappy. It is what you think about it.

Social Security and You

By Raymond MacDonald

Q. While receiving Social Security for the last 2 years, I have been working part time. Is it possible that my earnings from this job will increase my benefits, and how do I apply for this increase?

A. Your additional earnings may increase your benefit, but you do not have to apply for this increase. Each year the record of each beneficiary is reviewed, and if an increase is in order it is automatically processed.

Q. I understood that Medicare only covers us in the United States but my daughter says there is a Medicare office in Guam where her husband is stationed. I'm just curious to know how this could be.

A. Whenever you leave your home to travel, your Medicare card covers you in all 50 states of the Union plus the American possessions of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa and Guam. Just remember that if you ever have medical claims in any other area but your own state, you would file your 1490 form in the area where you received those services. Pages 27-29 of the Medicare handbook lists all the states and American possessions and the addresses of the carriers in each locale.

Q. Why is nursing home care covered under Medicare only after a person has been in a general hospital first?

A. The extended care coverage is intended to provide for continuation of hospital services after the intensive care stage. When this can be done in a skilled nursing home, it frees hospital beds for other patients, but it is still part of the Medicare patient's hospitalization.

Q. Must I pay the $50 deductible for pathologists or radiologists while I'm in the hospital?

A. Beginning on April 1st of last year, you do not have to meet the $50 deductible for the services of these specialists while you're in the hospital. Their services will be treated as regular hospital expenses under the Hospital Insurance part of Medicare.

Q. I will be retiring soon and would like to file my claim for Social Security before then. However, I am not able to visit the Social Security office during its normal hours. How can I take care of my claim for benefits?

A. You should file your claim for Social Security two or three months before you reach 65. The Social Security Office in Monterey is normally open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. To better serve the public, the office is also open from 9:00 a.m. to Noon each Saturday.

Q. My mother is in the hospital and will use up her 90 days in a couple of weeks. Under the new law, can my mother get additional hospital benefits?

A. Yes, the law now provides for a lifetime reserve of 60 days hospital coverage. For each day of the 60 which she uses, she will be billed $20 coinsurance. We would like to point out that the reserve days used cannot exceed 60 days during her lifetime.

DIXIELAND — Nearly 600 parents and their school-age offspring turned out for the River School spaghetti dinner last week. They were entertained by a quartet of fathers and educators made up of, from left, Carmel Mayor Barney Laiolo at gut-bucket, School Superintendent Harris Taylor on the Devil's Fiddle, Dr. G. Edward Jacobsen on trumpet and William Moritz, Middle School shop teacher on piano. Art work and decorations were by River School students.

STREAMLINED READERS — At Middle School taught by Miss Jo Brazell are attracting national notice. The class of 57 was recently presented the first junior membership in the International Reading Association by Dr. Ralph Staiger who flew out from Delaware. The class has been helpful in tutoring 5th and 6th graders and acting as Student Assistant Teachers to help in developing remedial materials and educational games. They have also helped in evaluating state reader texts, among other tasks unusual for their age. L. R. Rima Mazzeo, Peri Shefik, Mrs. Lucy Banfield, Eric Kramer, and Sandy Hillyer.

Expert Says 12-Month School Would Solve Financial, Efficiency Woes

(Dr. Rolf Ullestad of Carmel, a retired dental surgeon and instructor at Northwestern University Dental School, who is presently a director of the Pfeiffer Research Foundation in New York, an organization which aids medical and pharmaceutical schools, is intensely interested in the 12-month school year.

Dr. Ullestad noticed the following article in the Arlington Heights, Ill., "Day" Jan. 29 issue while between planes at Chicago airport, and has furnished the item to the Pine Cone.)

By Eric Zoeckler

A "self-educated expert" on a 12-month school operation plan told the board of High School District 214 Monday the concept would provide a more meaningful education while solving many financial and efficiency problems confronting administrators.

Mrs. Mary Liebman of McHenry blasted the traditional nine month operating calendar as "obsolete and wasteful" and presented the board with a plan that would keep schools operating 48 weeks a year with only 75 percent of their enrollment attending at one time.

The board, which has been considering the issue of a 12-month operation being suggested by the district's citizen's committee, invited Mrs. Liebman for an "educational session" on the idea.

She said the present system was adopted "generations ago when we needed students and teachers to help on the farm."

The summer shut-down or the physical plant "is an obvious waste," Mrs. Liebman said, "and less obvious but even more costly is the waste of human resources."

Mrs. Liebman, a housewife who has devoted much of her time to developing a 12-month school calendar, presented a "12-4 trimester plan" as a working example of year-round school operation.

Under the plan, students generally would attend school for 12 weeks followed by four weeks of vacation. Some of the vacation periods could be extended one to two weeks to permit staff holidays, Mrs. Liebman explained.

The 12-4 concept would require that students from one family attend school at the same time.

If the district were divided into four geographical groups, she said, three of the groups would be attending school while one was on vacation.

"By having our school buildings housing only three-quarters of their enrollments at one time, it would increase the capacity of the building to one-third more than the present maximum enrollment," she explained.

Mrs. Liebman said her program "is not a plan for cheap education nor a way to lower taxes."

But, she added, it would help solve the expensive nature of teachers shortages, bond issues, crowded schools and teacher salary problems.

Increasing the maximum possible enrollment by adopting a 12-4 program, Mrs. Liebman said, might cause a "building a moriatorium in a school district."

The 12-4 proposal is designed to push teachers' salaries over $10,000 after four years without an increase in the rate of pay.

"Although there would be more money spent on teachers, citizens would get a proportional increase in productivity," she said.

Mrs. Liebman said that although a student was on vacation he still could use school facilities, such as the library, language, labs, music rooms, art rooms and gym for independent advancement.

The 12 - 4 system, or a quarter system of nine weeks of school followed by three weeks of vacation, is not without its problems. Mrs. Liebman conceded.

Regulations would also have to be passed to allow students "on vacation" to be eligible to participate in athletic programs.

Mrs. Liebman also said said that the proposal also would involve changes in state school codes, teacher tenure, and accumulation of funds under building tax rates.

Problems arising from the elimination of the traditional summer vacation might not be as great as originally thought, she said.

"Many businesses are getting away from the "summer" close-down so that the father now has a 'year-round' choice of when to take his vacation.

"And I have talked with many businessmen who would be agree to hiring students in other than the summer months.

Mrs. Liebman said that she first became interested in developing a 12 - month school plan after a magazine article she wrote on the problem 10 years ago received an enthusiastic response.

Final Performance Of 'Doctor Faustus' Tonight

"Sin is the reward of death".

These closing words echo the resounding theme of "Doctor Faustas", the legend of the wise old scholar who sold his soul to the devil in exchange for earthly pleasures.

Based on the play by Christopher Marlowe, "Doctor Faustus" has been converted into a screen spectacular, starring Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor.

Sponsored by the Carmel Museum of Art, this motion-picture depiction of Faustus' struggle between salvation or eternal damnation for 24 years of worldly delights, was presented at the Carmel Village Theater yesterday and will be shown tonight with performances at 7:30 and 9:30 o'clock.

Burton, who produced, co-directed and starred in the film, portrays the role of Faustus as only Burton can.

Elizabeth Taylor, donning the role of Marlowe's wordless Helen of Troy who symbolizes the temptations of the flesh that beset Faustus, plays history's most beautiful woman with exquisite style and grace.

The play "Doctor Faustus" was recently staged in Oxford by the Oxford University Dramatic Society, with Richard Burton in the title role and Elizabeth Taylor in the cast. When it was decided that the film should be made, almost 50 members of the Oxford University Dramatic Society went to Rome to re-enact their stage roles in the movie.

Only tickets purchased at Carmel Museum of Art benefit it.

TRAVELERS RETURN

The Ken Browns and Ray Pesheks have just returned from a 5-week automobile tour of the southern United States straight through to the Florida Keyes.

Brown, Carmel Councilman and police commissioner, said they saw little rain during their trip and the roads were excellent.

Also being a motel man, he mentioned that the accommodations were always good and reservations are not needed that time of the year.

Here is the Home
For a large, happy Family

It has lots of bedrooms--six to eight! It has 2½ baths plus another one roughed-in. The kitchen-family room is enormous and fully convenience-equipped. The step-down living room is off the spacious entry hall and at a dead end in the traffic pattern. The master bedroom has a whole level to itself.

Parts of the house are old, much of it is semi-new, and it all rambles comfortably over nearly three lots in a quiet area near Woods School. Lots of room for Cub Scouts, teen-age parties, and Brownies. It needs a big family to take it over, really live in it and love it.

Enos Fouratt's Specials

A PANORAMIC VIEW of Point Lobos and the Valley and a quiet cul-de-sac location are the principal assets of our 2100 square foot three-bedroom, two-bath, separate dining room house. It has a large two-car carport with storage and is landscaped for minimum maintenance. A fine value at $55,000.

WE HAVE AN OLD CARMEL CHARMER of four bedrooms and four baths that is priced just above the value of the sites included in the sale. Use it or lease it until maintenance becomes a problem — then tear it down and build three homes. If a circular drive will satisfy your desire for a garage, you could sell one site right now. Acquisition cost is $79,500.

UNDOUBTEDLY THE BEST VALUE on the market today is our immaculate three-bedroom, two-bath home up in Rancho Rio Vista. It is beautifully landscaped and has a lower-level large room suitable for almost any hobby. The ocean view is through the pines. An outstanding investment at $65,000.

There's Something "Special"

ABOUT HOMES WITH AN AIR OF PERMANENT BEAUTY reflected in that mellow Mediterranean architecture. There's an atmosphere of "agelessness" that means easy maintenance for the owner; tranquility seems assured in the old world charm. The Carmel area today offers a choice of two fine Spanish-type residences.

1. An exciting example of remodeling and redecorating by someone with a "flair" for combining early architectural design with modern convenience and colors that glow. Just listed (and a delight to show) is this Carmel Point property featuring: protected entry, large carpeted living room with chalk rock hearth and access to a deck with afternoon sun, separate dining room, contemporary tiled kitchen, a desk-and-couch nook and a first-floor bath. On the second level is the master bedroom with fireplace and VIEW OF THE SEA, two baths and a second bedroom. A "bonus" item is the detached garden cottage with room and bath . . . suitable as guest quarters, a studio or for rental income. There is nothing humdrum about this choice residence . . . it's a most livable listing at $69,500.
2. Another example of European traditional design is this pleasant family home in North Hatton Fields. Spacious grounds (90' x 125') provide quiet privacy for the white house with its red tiled roof. Living room with high ceiling and tall windows, dining room, large country kitchen, bedrooms and bath on the first floor; two bedrooms and bath on the second level. Separate studio or workshop in the garden, separated from the house by bearing fruit trees. Reduced to $47,500 by the owners who are leaving the area.

SJSC Offers Local Extension Courses

A San Jose State College extension course on current programs and innovations in the field of reading, language arts, and development of programs and materials will be taught by Miss Jo Brazell of Middle School.

The class will begin on Tuesday, Feb. 25, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Monterey High School and last for 15 weeks. It will earn three units of credit.

In addition, San Jose State will offer a spring semester course in group guidance for counselors, teachers and administrators. The course will run from 7-10 p.m. Tuesdays, Feb. 25 through June 10, 1969, at Monterey Peninsula College.

Marshall Chatwin, director of counseling at Monterey Peninsula College, will instruct the three-unit course, which is designed to help meet the requirements in group process theory and practice for the credential in pupil counseling and child welfare. Further information may be obtained from the extension services at SJSC.

MPVS Aiding Local Projects

The Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services recently contributed $200 to the Carmel chapter of the American Field Service. A student from Malaysia is attending Carmel High School and a Carmel girl is living as an exchange student in Vienna, both supported by MPVS funds.

The Tri-County Science Fair to be held in Watsonville Apr. 16 to 20, was given $250 to help defray cost of winners and runners-up to compete at the International Science Fair.

The Children's Home Society will receive the proceeds from sales at the MPVS Thrift Shop in Seaside for the first half of March. Rummage from members of the Children's Home Society may be taken to the Thrift Shop any time. They should be clearly marked.

The annual Spring Garden Tour of MPVS will be held in mid-May.

Fred Strong Retires After 40 Years

did he know about the second one — Burritt Cahoon — but he also had known personally his four sons — Merrill, Burt, Horace, and Willie — all of whom are now dead.

Cahoon and Hilbrom, says Hitchcock, had the post office at what is now the White Oaks Inn in the Carmel Valley Village.

When Whittock took the postmastership, he moved the post office farther up the Valley, to what is now the Rancho Carmelo. A little later, he either "got sick and closed up the post office, or else he just shut it up and moved away," says Hitchcock who, by the way, remembers him not as "Whittock" but as "Whitlock".

At about this time — in 1902 or 1903 — the two co-founders of modern-day Carmel, Frank Powers and Frank Devendorf, were busy promoting the area which is now the City of Carmel. And at this point again, the recollections of Carmel Valley's Joe Hitchcock, provide the basic information. At this period, he says, he was living in what is today Carmel, and he was "taking care of Frank Devendorf's horses."

Move To Carmel

Hitchcock says that Frank Powers, whom he identifies as "a corporation lawyer from San Francisco", was a man who had "the right kind of conenctions." Since the post office, called "Carmel," was closed then in the Carmel Valley, Powers managed to get it removed to what is present-day Carmel — and it has remained here ever since.

THE BLOTTER

Hit and run complaints of a minor nature, blocked driveways by parked cars, lost wallets and unlocked store doors seemed to make up most of the police activity during the week.

However, on Sunday evening, Carmel police stopped a driver for having no rear light over the license plate. Investigation of the rear compartment revealed a .38 caliber revolver, which seemed to have the serial number removed. However, at the police station, a number was found on the butt of the weapon, and the hand gun is being held pending a check on the number.

The driver of the car insisted that he had purchased the gun for $10 just recently. He was not held.

A wave of vandalism hit Junipero and Mission in the vicinity of 8th and 9th. Four cars had tires slashed, and one convertible roof was ripped with a sharp instrument.

On Monday, two reports of runaway juveniles were received, one from Sunnyvale and one from Medford, Ore. Both were boys, and were reported heading for Big Sur.

On Tuesday, the manager of the Bank of America reported that his front door locks were jammed. Investigation revealed that both locks on the front door of the bank had been jammed with something, and both were inoperable.

For the rest of the day, police kept on the lookout for three loose dogs reported, and took fingerprints for a new teachers' aide for Carmel School System.

The Monterey County Sheriff's Rescue Squad recovered the body of Mrs. Dorothy Slingerland from beneath the Rocky Point Bridge, nine miles south of Carmel. It has not yet been dtermined whether Mrs. Slingerland fell or jumped.

The Fire Department had an item of interest to the Community, an incident about which they have considerable feelings.

On Feb. 6 about 2:30 in the afternoon, the I. Magnin shop alarm rang, and the department responded to the Carmel Plaza store.

They could find no fire, but smoke was coming from a stairwell leading to the roof. The stairs had two fire sprinklers, and apparently someone had tried to activate them by holding burning objects—rage and matches—to the units.

When this was unsuccessful, they set off the sprinkler head by damaging the heat sensor inside.

Two juveniles have been picked up and charged in the incident, and while the department says that this is really a tragedy, there are more serious complications arising from what ostensibly was intended to be a boyish prank and caused no particular damage.

Of the 24-man Fire Department, 18 are volunteers and must drive to the firehouse, then the engines must, on an emergency basis, drive to the scene of the alarm.

Accidents of many sorts are a possibility under the circumstances, and the Fire Department takes an extremely dim view of parents who fail to educate their children in the seriousness of turning in fire alarms just to get the sirens going.
